Play it safe on bonfire night

By CATHERINE PYE

Emergency services are urging revellers to stay safe and have fun this bonfire night.

Last year Lancashire Fire and Rescue turned out to 250 calls involving bonfires throughout the county on November 5, with that figure doubling on the bonfire weekend.

Now police have joined forces with firefighters and council bosses in a major crackdown in the run-up to bonfire night as part of the Bright Sparx campaign.

Officers will be tackling illegal trading of fireworks and clearing unauthorised bonfires. They have also been working with schools to raise awareness of the dangers of playing with fireworks.

Firefighters and police will be carrying out joint patrols in hotspot areas and anyone caught behaving irresponsibly will be dealt with robustly. Sergeant James Black said: "At this time of year, we tend to seen an increase in anti-social behaviour and criminal damage.

"Whilst we know the majority of people will use fireworks responsibly, or attend an organised event, there are some who are intent on spoiling the fun for others, and we will be working closely with the fire service and local authorities to make sure people are safe.

"This year the message is simple: stay bright and stay safe. Attend an organised bonfire, or fireworks display, and don't misuse fireworks. We want people to enjoy themselves, but most importantly be sensible and stay safe."

Chief fire officer Peter Holland said: "Lancashire Fire and Rescue Service is not alone in seeing our workload soar at this time of year in our efforts to maintain public safety. Firework injuries keep Lancashire hospitals' A&E departments among the busiest in the country."

Citizen In brief

Holy Daisy! It's the superheroes

Batman and Robin were among the superheroes serving customers at Nelson communications firm Daisy Group Plc on the Lomeshaye Industrial Estate as they celebrated National Customer Service Week.

Go chill out

Youths are being invited to use games consoles, DJ equipment and a snack bar at the Chill Out room, at the Padiham Town Hall annex room. The facility, for 12 to 16-year-olds, will be open from 7.30pm on November 13 and 20 and December 11.

Pub in balance

A 150-year-old pub in Nelson may have served its last pint unless a buyer can be found. The Clayton Arms, Manchester Road, has been empty since earlier this year. Now the pub, built by Lord Every Clayton in 1863, has been put up for sale with a leasehold price-tag of £215,000.

Beard gets the chop for charity

A TAXI driver who was renowned for his flowing locks and bushy beard has had it all shaved off in the name of charity.

Chris Arthur, who sported the hairy image for 10 years, decided it was time for a change when a customer made a comment about his appearance.

Acting on a suggestion from a friend, the 50-year-old taxi driver turned the 'make-over' into a charity stunt.

The granddad said he chose to raise money for Pendleside Hospice because members of his family have died of cancer.

Chris, who has been a taxi driver for 18 years and now works for Jax Private Hire in Burnley, was given the makeover at Koko's night-club in Burnley. His face and head were sheared 'down to the wood' by Rachael Smith, of Burnley salon Barbers Square. According to Chris, of Selby Street, Nelson, the end result gave him 'a bit of a shock'.

He said: "When I looked in the mirror just after I'd had it done I thought I was looking at Uncle Fester, but I'm getting used to it now."

Many of Chris's customers sponsored him but he fears collecting the money could prove difficult because they might not recognise him.

He said: "I would have loved to have raised about £5,000 but realistically £1,000 will be great – it's certainly an expensive haircut.

"Me and my wife have both lost family members to cancer so I wanted to do it for Pendleside Hospice which is 10 minutes from my house."

The sponsored head and beard shave took place in front of Chris' colleagues and representatives of the hospice.

Fundraiser Carl Barnacle said: "We are grateful to Chris for thinking of us when shaving his head and beard."

After the image overhaul, Chris said he now intends to keep the 'smooth' look.

A sequence of winning steps

SEASIDE SPECIAL: Dane partners Emily Haworth and Adam Bynert

TWO teenagers have been crowned the best junior sequence dancers in the country.

Emily Haworth, 14, of Sycamore Close, Rishton, and her partner, Adam Bynert, 15, of Slipper Hill, Foulridge, have been dancing together at Sanderson's Dance and Fitness Centre, Nelson, for three years, dedicating hours each day to their passion.

All their hard work paid off in style at the annual British Championship at the Winter Gardens in Blackpool last week where they beat more than 50 competitors from the UK and Isle of Man to claim the Four Dance British Championship Trophy. They were also named Boy and Girl Champions.

Emily's mum, Denise Haworth, 46, said: "I'm so proud of them both because they've worked so hard for it. They've earned it over the years.

"They are absolutely dedicated. It's their lives."

Emily began dancing aged nine after watching her older sister Clare take her dance teaching exams.

The St Wilfrid's C of E High School, Blackburn, pupil now wants to follow in her sister's footsteps and take teaching exams after her GCSEs.

The partners were paired up at age 11 by Adam's mum Jackie who runs Sanderson's and takes their classes.

Beauty wants votes

A MEDICAL student who is bidding to become Miss Black Britain is counting on her supporters in Lancashire to make a difference.

Twenty-two year old Gertrude Chatukuta, from Brierfield, has been allocated her voting number in the competition finals.

People wanting to back the former Burnley Habergham sixth former's dreams are being urged to text 'MISSBB GERTRUDE' to 82085 before Saturday, November 14.

Gertrude, of Mansfield Crescent, said: "I'd really like as many people as possible to vote for me."

On-line voters can give her their backing by logging on to www.missblackbritain.co.uk.

1 woman in bid to be MP

JUST one woman has put herself forward for the Labour shortlist to be the town's next MP — and she is up against 14 men.

Labour bosses originally planned to only accept female nominations.

That controversial policy was reversed last month after stinging criticism from local activists.

The sole woman in the running is Julie Cooper, the leader of the Labour group on Burnley Council.

Former county councillors Tony Martin and Marcus Johnstone, who lost their seats in June, are also on the list, while at least half of the potential candidates are thought to be from outside the area.

Coun Cooper said: "I always supported an open shortlist from the beginning because, although I sincerely hope I am voted in to stand as MP, I want the people of Burnley to vote me in because I am the best candidate, not because I am a woman.

"There is some fierce competition in the running, but I relish the challenge.

"I am sure the locals will vote for the best candidate in the end."

Gordon Birtwistle, leader of Burnley Council and Liberal Democrat parliamentary candidate for the town, said: "Whoever they put forward, we will take them on with vigour."

A 'meet and greet' meeting was held for the candidates to try and garner support from local party members.

This week a series of branch meetings will take place, and the list will be whittled down to around five candidates, who will take part in a hustings-style debate in December.

Hallowe'en busy for police

Police in Burnley and Pendle were 'kept busy' during the Hallowe'en weekend. Though no major incidents were reported to the police during the weekend, officers had their hands to the deck.

Duty Inspector Andrew Carter said: "The amount of crime may have been increased because it was Hallowe'en, but we usually expect things to happen."

'Find a flu friend'

HEALTH bosses have urged residents in East Lancashire to find themselves at least one 'flu friend' to help them in case they catch swine flu.

They say it is inevitable more people will fall ill in the coming weeks.

Dr Ellis Friedman, director of public health at NHS East Lancashire, said: "It would be sensible for members of the public to start thinking about how they would look after themselves - and others - in the community who may need help if they get swine flu.

"Everyone needs to choose at least one 'flu friend'. This is someone who could help by collecting medication and food supplies."

The symptoms of swine flu are a high temperature with cough and cold symptoms. Anyone who suspects they have the virus should contact NHS Direct 0845 46 47 or the swine flu information line on 0800 1 513 513.

VETERAN: Michael Iddon (in beret) with Royal British Legion friends on Windermere

Poppy appeal is now afloat

A FALKLANDS War veteran helped launch the region's Poppy Appeal — by going on water for the first time since his warship was sunk.

Last week, former Royal Navy medic Mick Iddon took to the water for the first time in 27 years to lay a Poppy wreath on Windermere.

It marked the start of this year's fundraising efforts for the Royal British Legion which supports those who have served in the forces and their families.

Organisers are hoping to beat Lancashire's 2008 total of £585,000.

And the efforts were given a poignant boost by Mr Iddon, 46, of Burnley, who suffers from Post Traumatic Stress Disorder as a result of being aboard the warship Sir Galahad when it was bombed and sank during the Falklands.

Speaking at an awareness-raising event in Bamber Bridge on Saturday, Mr Iddon said he would have 'cracked up' long ago without the support of the legion, its Riders Branch and other agencies.

He said: "The launch last week was the first time I'd been back in a boat unmedicated since the Falklands.

"With the support of my mates I managed to get on board and it was a mixture of pride and embarrassment at the attention.

"Getting back on the water shows how much the Poppy Appeal means to me.

"To be honest I'd not have got to where I am today without the support of the legion."

Mr Iddon was only 19 as he saw first hand the devastation of war.

He left the forces in 1983 and, despite showing symptoms, was only diagnosed after more than 15 years struggling on his own.

He recalls having flashbacks in the middle of supermarkets and pubs and having to be dragged home by pals.

He says he and his fellow 'Riders Branch' members are honoured to raise awareness of how the Poppy Appeal money helps support people such as himself, with treatment, funding and securing pensions.

Relaxing night for guests

NELSON and Colne college welcomed 50 guests to an evening of relaxation and indulgence last week.

A Dermalogica event saw level three beauty therapy students offering 'face mapping' advice and treatment to residents.

Beauty therapy lecturer and Dermalogica expert, Joanna Whitely said: "The evening was a great success with many of our special guests commenting on the exceptional and highly professional conduct of our students."

Padiham history in focus

A PEEK into Padiham's past has been brought into focus by a former miner and architect.

Ex-collier Jack Nadin has teamed up with fellow writer Duncan Armstrong to produce a Padiham edition for The History Press series Britain In Old Photographs.

Life in the town's old cotton mills, coal mines, quarries and foundries are recounted in the pictoral history.

A History Press spokesman said: "Padiham in Old Photographs takes the readers from the Victorian era through to the present day."

The book, said to contain many photos never published before, will be available in paperback on December 5.

Artist's sculpture to be unveiled

WORK is set to be completed on a far-sighted piece of public art outside Burnley bus station next month.

Artist Noah Rose is behind 'Observatory', the new sculpture outside the Croft Street terminus, which will be unveiled on November 19.

He worked with a number of local people to create a portrait of the town in photographs and poems. These will all be contained within the sculpture, part-funded by Tesco, as part of a planning deal for their nearby Centenary Way store.

Noah said: "Making Obser-vatory has been a really inter-esting and exciting process. I set out to make a sculpture that was some kind of link between the past, present and future of Burnley."

Helen Jones, council arts officer, said: "Eight to 10 artists put forward their ideas and Noah was chosen because of the way he involves the community in his work."

Gateway to get revamp

HOUSES at two gateways to Pendle towns are to get major facelifts as part of a £500,000 regeneration scheme.

The 'block improvements' to properties in Leeds Road, Nelson, and Glen Way, Brier-field, will include external enhancements, repairs to the front of the homes and stone cleaning.

The work, which is subject to planning approval, will be funded by Elevate, Pennine Lancashire's housing market renewal and regeneration body.

Regeneration chiefs hailed the project, saying it will inject pride into the communities and encourage further investment.

It is hoped the work will improve or enhance the entry and exit routes into Pendle's towns.

This latest scheme is part of Pendle Council's wider drive to regenerate its towns. A report to the council's executive committee said it would 'maximise the impact' of work under way or completed on the gateways.

Coun Sonia Robinson, executive member for hous-ing regeneration, welcomed the initiative.

She said: "The new look will bring new pride and market confidence to the areas and encourage further investment."

In recent years extensive work has been completed to gateway properties in Nelson and Brierfield.

Pledge plea to supporters

CLARETS bosses have issued an 11th-hour plea for supporters to return their 'Premier Pledge' forms – and apologised for delays in dealing with those who have already applied.

More than 7,000 forms are currently being processed as part of chairman Barry Kilby's pledge scheme to return season ticket money after Burnley's promotion to the Premier League.

Letters and cheques will be sent out to around 5,000 fans, whose surnames begin with the initials A to P, next week.

The other 2,000 applications will continue to be processed, the club said, with an announcement expected shortly about when they will those refunds will go out.

By PETE MAGILL

A Burnley FC spokesman said: "We would like to thank our supporters for their continued patience.

"The manual processing of over 7,000 supporters applications, along with the options available, has taken longer than anticipated.

"However we can now confirm that all supporters who requested refunds will begin receiving cheques via the post next week."

The only exception to this is for those with Premium Credit agreements, which are in the process of being cancelled and refunds administered through that scheme.

Cancer protest goes to London

THREE Barnoldswick cancer campaigners have visited Westminster to raise their concerns with MPs.

Mary Brennan, Sally Lambert and Marjorie Stewart are concerned about a possible move of out-of-hours oncology beds from Airedale Hospital, Steeton, to Bradford and used the annual lobbying event of Breakthrough Breast Cancer, the Westminster Fly-In, to highlight their fears.

The women, all members of the Barnoldswick and Earby Bosom Friends cancer support group, spoke to MP Ann Cryer, whose constituency takes in Airedale Hospital, and also raised the issue with Jeremy Hughes, chief executive of Breakthrough Breast Cancer, and Mark Simmonds, Shadow Minister for cancer services.

"We have been delighted with the response to our request for support," said Mrs Brennan.

Band's Shake-up for the Grammys

AN unsigned band from East Lancashire is tussling with the likes of Pink and Keane for a coveted pop Grammy award.

Shakeys Brother haven't even got a record deal but they could be about to crash the world's biggest music bash with their self-titled debut release.

And if the five-piece from Sabden and Burnley secure enough votes from the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences in the US, they could be heading to Los Angeles for the televised ceremony at the end of January.

They are up against established stars Keane, Lilly Allen and Pink, among others, for the gong.

The outfit, together for just over a year, were entered into the fray by their US promoters Big Noise on the back of their eponymous five-track EP, which is only available online.

And after a stringent evaluation process by academy judges they have secured nominations in the best pop vocal album and best pop performance by a duo or group with vocals categories.

For a band pitched somewhere between Razorlight, The Killers and Arctic Monkeys, the announcement was almost too good to be true.

LOOKING STATESIDE: Shakeys Brother, who rehearse in a cellar in Padiham

Bassist Jimmy McNulty, a 21-year-old Burnley student, said: "At first we thought it was a wind-up.

"It wasn't until we checked the official website that it dawned on us it was actually true. To see our name up there alongside modern artists like Keane and Lily Allen, as well as established artists like Seal is amazing."

The band, which rehearses in the cellar of a disused Padiham shop, should know if they are heading Stateside for the Grammys around the turn of the year.

Garrick Club revisit Godber for new show

Happy Jack is related to September in the Rain, which audiences enjoyed when it was performed by the Garrick in January 2005.

We meet the same two characters, Jack and his wife Liz. Small lovingly detailed extracts from the couple's lives are shown – from their early courtship, through to their retirement. But the tale is not told in chronological order, so the audience is constantly entertained as the jigsaw of their long lives together is completed.

Happy Jack runs at Burnley Mechanics from November 25 to 28.

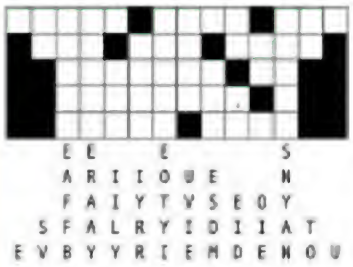
Lost Letter 24: Peter Pan said..



Last week's quote, from popular children's book character Winnie the Pooh, was: "The more he looked inside the more Piglet wasn't there."

In this puzzle, a famous or popular quotation fills the grid. The individual letters remain in their correct column, but have fallen out and are out of order. Reinsert them in the correct order to find the answer. Punctuation is given in its own square. This week's quotation is JM Barrie's Peter Pan.

Call to uncover a mystery in love.

Call: 0906 585 4520

Virgo

FIVE MINUTES WITH ... KATHERINE JENKINS

IN 2010 YOU'RE HEADING OUT ON A UK TOUR, ARE YOU EXCITED?
Oh my gosh, yes! It's my first solo arena tour and I loved the experience of doing the arenas when I was doing Viva La Diva with Darcey Bussell, but obviously this is going to be exciting because I'm going to be on my own for the first time.

YOU'VE BEEN GIVEN THE TITLE 'THE NEW FORCES SWEETHEART' - ARE YOU PROUD?
When I was given it, it was a huge compliment but I immediately wanted to feel I should earn the title rather than just be given it. That's why I still go out and sing. I'm involved in the British Forces Foundation. I still want to be as involved as I can be, so it's something which is very close to my heart.

WHAT WAS IT LIKE GROWING UP IN SOUTH WALES?
There's a lot of music in South Wales from things like competitions, and most of the towns and villages have male voice choirs, so there's a lot of singing going on there anyway. I felt like my community supported my singing when I was younger, and I'm still very lucky to be supported today. I'm not sure if I would have had the same success or chances if I hadn't grown up in that area, because there were so many places I could pursue my singing in.

Welsh classical singer Katherine Jenkins has released her seventh album Believe and will head out on her first solo UK arena tour in March. The 29-year-old from Neath, a mezzo-soprano, studied at the Royal Academy of Music before her 2004 debut album spent eight weeks at the top of the UK Classical charts. Her pop crossover sound has seen her sell more than four million records.

Fred's Dilemna
Fred Faithful was a very loyal man. Lorraine was his pretty girlfriend, he was her number one fan. One day he went to work and found a new girl had started, She was called Clearly, drop dead gorgeous, newly parted. Fred became besotted, it was obvious Clearly liked him too. But he still loved Lorraine and didn't know what to do. Fortunately as fate had it, Lorraine ran away with John. As soon as this happened, Fred burst into song. Team spirit is so strong

CLARKE Carlisle says team spirit is Burnley's great strength as they go in search of their first away Premier League points at Manchester City on Saturday.

A 2-0 win over Hull moved Owen Coyle's men up one place in the table to 10th.

And Carlisle knew the Clarets would quickly return to winning ways after the Wigan defeat.

"I had no doubts we would come bouncing back," said the 30-year-old. There's a massive togetherness and everyone's willing to do a job and a half.

"We've shown, not only last season, but at times this season – even with the new players – that we have that within our ranks. You trust the man alongside you. The three points get us back on the road after losing our home record last week, and the clean sheet is excellent for the defence and for the team.

"Defensively, it gives us a massive confidence boost, because it's such a tough division to keep clean sheets in. Every other team has oodles of quality within their ranks, but we knew that we have the quality to win the games, especially here.

"It's another three points on the board and we're comfortably mid-table."

But while Burnley's impressive home form is bettered only by Manchester United, Carlisle knows they cannot take it for granted if they want to preserve their enviable position.

"It's fantastic, but the season is only however old it is. We have to make sure that we keep on going right to the bitter end and come May 9 let's hope we're still in the top 10," said the former Watford centre-back, who, along with Birmingham City's Roger Johnson, boasts the most defensive clearances in the division.

"All we can do is keep winning matches when we can and keep our heads in front of everyone else's."

Carlisle feels such commitment, and competition for places, will be key over the course of the campaign.

"It symbolises what's within the squad," he said. "Everyone's desperate to get out there of a Saturday, the people who aren't in the starting eleven are busting a gut during the week to show the manager what they are capable of, and when they come on as substitutes, everyone's got ability hunger and desire."
